THE VOGUE 25:
10 PUCKER UP

Thermage—the radio-frequency treatment famed for its ability to tighten lackluster skin and kick-start collagen—has a new target: your mouth. Armed with a new, shallower, FDA-approved tip, your favorite doctor can now firm (and subsequently lift) your upper lip—one of the first parts of the face to deflate from volume loss—not to mention smooth vertical lines (the places lipstick bleeds) and add definition and fullness. Even better news: It takes only one 30-minute session ($750 to $1,000).
