Thermage Introduces Infinity Program at AAD

HAYWARD, Calif., February 1, 2008 — Thermage, an aesthetic medical device company, today announced the U.S. launch of its Infinity Program at the Annual Meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology in San Antonio. The program is a unique purchasing plan which provides more options and increased flexibility for aesthetic physicians purchasing the Company's ThermaCool[®] NXT[™] systems and ThermaTip[™] products.

The Infinity Program introduces a variety of capital equipment purchase plans that are designed to match the individual business needs of aesthetic physicians. In addition, the program offers customers the opportunity to enroll in subscription-based plans to purchase treatment tips and other consumables.

"We are constantly soliciting feedback from our customers in an effort to improve our partnership," said Stephen J. Fanning, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer at Thermage. "To that end, we feel that the Infinity Program provides an increased level of flexibility for our physician partners and enables them to choose a solution that best meets the specific needs of their practice."

In 2007, Thermage introduced the new ThermaCool[®] NXT[™] system, which shortens procedure times and offers practitioners more comfort and flexibility than its predecessor system. In addition, Thermage launched three new ThermaTip products in 2007 that expand customers' aesthetic applications on the Company's platform technology.

About Thermage

Thermage's innovative technology provides a unique non-invasive procedure designed to tighten and contour skin, significantly expanding the non-invasive aesthetic applications physicians can offer to the rapidly growing "anti-aging" market.
